An Apology from the Guide to Chodosh

Over the years I have tried to provide ongoing support to those who are makpid on Chodosh by answering questions via the phone Hot Line and by email. This year, due to an unprecedented personal situation, I have been unable to provide the same continued level of support. I have been giving priority to the phone Hot Line, managing to answer each day's questions. I had to neglect answering the emails. Indeed, there is a backlog of more than 3 weeks worth of unanswered emails. I apologize to those who sent those emails and hope to resume the usual responses to emails in the near future.

Meanwhile, the full Guide to Chodosh for the season is nearing completion. We hope to be able to release it to the printer and by email, BE"H, near the end of November.
