Yoshon.com Updating

During the off-season, there are plans to update the Yoshon.com website. This will help make the website faster. We will update with details. Work will be done on a separate domain, and the main site will stay in place until work is done to change over to the new system. Once it is tested and in place, it will be assigned the Yoshon.com domain again.

Just to say that, although it seems like the TYNI staff are having a complete vacation, there is a lot of work going on behind the scenes that the public never sees. We happily endeavor to bring you the best and most up-to-date information on yoshon products. Enjoy your vacation everyone, but we at TYNI still have a lot of work to do!
